2. Language Features

a. Pronoun (pro·noun | \ 'prō-, naɪn)

A pronoun is a word that is used instead of a noun or noun phrase. Pronouns refer to either a noun that has already been mentioned or to a noun that does not need to be named specifically.

The most common pronouns are the personal pronouns, which refer to the person or people speaking or writing (first person), the person or people being spoken to (second person), or other people or things (third person). Like nouns, personal pronouns can function as either the subject of a verb or the object of a verb or preposition: "She likes him, but he loves her." Most of the personal pronouns have different subject and object forms:

as subject
	singular	plural
1 st person	I	we
2 nd person	you	you
3 rd person	he, she, it	they

as object
	singular	plural
1 st person	me	us
2 nd person	you	you
3 rd person	him, her, it	them

There are a number of other types of pronouns. The interrogative pronouns—particularly what, which, who, whom, and whose—introduce questions for which a noun is the answer, as in "Which do you prefer?"

Possessive pronouns refer to things or people that belong to someone. The main possessive pronouns are mine, yours, his, hers, its, ours, and theirs.

b. Simple Present Tense

The simple present tense is one of several forms of present tense in English. It is used to describe habits, unchanging situations, general truths, and fixed arrangements. The simple present tense is simple to form. Just use the base form of the verb: (I take, you take, we take, they take) The 3rd person singular takes an -s at the end. (He takes, she takes)

The simple present tense is used:

- To express habits, general truths, repeated actions or unchanging situations, emotions and wishes:

I smoke (habit); I work in London (unchanging situation); London is a large city (general truth)

- To give instructions or directions:

You walk for two hundred meters, then you turn left.

- To express fixed arrangements, present or future:

Your exam starts at 09.00

- To express future time, after some conjunctions: after, when, before, as soon as, until:

He'll give it to you when you come next Saturday.

Here are some examples:

- For habits

He drinks coffee at lunch.

She only eats fish.

They watch television regularly.

- For repeated actions or events

We catch the bus every morning.

It rains every afternoon in the hot season.

They drive to London every summer.

- For general truths

Water freezes at zero degrees.

The Sun shines in the East.

Her mother is Peruvian.

- For instructions or directions

Open the packet and pour the contents into hot water.

- For fixed arrangements

His mother arrives tomorrow.

Our holiday starts on the 26th March.

Ingredients:

- 5 eggs
- 40 gram sugar
- 60 gram purpose flour
- 2 gram baking powder
- Salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- Honey

Instructions:

1. First, separate the egg yolk and the white. Then beat the egg white until stiff.
2. In a separated bowl, mix the egg yolks with sugar until the sugar melts.
3. Next, add the flour, baking powder, and salt. Then stir until all the ingredients mixed.
4. Slowly pour all the mixture ingredients into one bowl. Then add vanilla extract and mix it.
5. Then heat a pan over a low-medium heat and coat it with butter. Use a 1/4 cup measure to scoop and drop the batter into the pan so that you get evenly-sized pancakes.
6. Cook until the first side is golden brown, or until the top surface forms bubbles.
7. Flip and repeat on the other side. Adjust heat accordingly.
8. Finally, serve the pancake while it is still warm with honey. You can add some fruits like grapes or strawberry to make it more delicious
